December 2009

◆ Seminar on Sustainable Logistics on Dec. 3

On Thursday, December 3, 2009 JITI hosted a seminar on sustainable logistics at the Washington Marriott Metro Center in Washington, DC.

The successful event of 120 participants attracted a wide variety of stake-holders who had the opportunity to listen to keynote speeches from experts intimately involved in the field in both Japan and the U.S. The outstanding presentations were followed by a panel session that produced a lively and informative discussion between the panelists and the audience on the possibility of managing efficiency and environmentally friendliness in logistics.

Following the seminar, guests were invited to a reception which provided a backdrop wherein the participants continued the discussion of topics covered earlier in the day and had the occasion to create connections for future collaboration within the industry.
